

METROPOLITAN CLUB SUSPENDS SMALLEY.

The Newspaper Correspondent Denied Its Privileges for One Month.

His Offense Said to Be the Wilful Infraction of Certain of the Rules.

This Precedes the Action of the Century Club in Refusing Him Membership.

WELL KNOWN HERE AND ABROAD.

He Was Formerly London Correspondent of the New York Tribune, and Is Now New York Correspondent for the London Times.

George W. Smalley, formerly London correspondent of the New York Tribune, but now the New York correspondent of the London Times, has been suspended from membership of the Metropolitan Club for one month. Recently he was denied admission to the Century Club, his name having been withdrawn from the waiting list because his proposers feared he would be blackballed.

His suspension as a member of the Metropolitan Club was decided upon by the Board of Governors after a thorough investigation of charges preferred against him. Mr. Smalley's offense consisted of serious infractions of the rules of the club.

A prominent member of the Metropolitan Club, in speaking of Mr. Smalley's suspension, said last evening:

"Of course it is a rather delicate question for me to discuss, but as long as the news has become public property, the fact of his suspension might as well be admitted."

VIOLATED CLUB RULES.

"What was the direct cause of his suspension?" was asked.

"He insisted on violating the rules of the club and making himself generally obnoxious and disagreeable to the members."

"Did any of his friends in the club defend him before the Board of Governors?"

"Oh, a few of the members were in favor of letting him down easy. They thought a reprimand would be sufficient punishment, but there was such feeling against him more drastic measures had to be taken."

"There is no doubt in my mind that Mr. Smalley's conduct in our club became known to the officers of the Century Club and resulted in the withdrawal of his name. Many of our members are also members of the Century Club."

EXACT CHARGES KEPT SECRET.

"Cannot you mention the nature of Mr. Smalley's misconduct as a member of the Metropolitan Club?"

"As I said before, it would not be proper for me to specify the cause of his suspension. He violated our rules, charges were preferred against him, and he lost the privileges of the club for thirty days. That is all I care to say in regard to the matter."

Another member of the Metropolitan Club admitted that Mr. Smalley had been suspended from membership, but refused to talk upon the subject.

BURIED WITH THE ELKS.

Colonel John A. Cockerill's Remains to Be Brought from Egypt and Taken to St. Louis.

Such arrangements have been made for the funeral of Colonel John A. Cockerill, the news of whose sudden death in Cairo, Egypt, on Friday, was a severe shock to his friends in this country, were announced last night at the home of the widow, No. 150 West Eighty-fourth street. Mrs. Cockerill received a cablegram last night from James Gordon Bennett, saying he would send a personal representative to Cairo at once to take charge of the remains.

The remains will be embalmed at Cairo, and after appropriate funeral services Mr. Bennett's representative will accompany the body to New York.

It was decided last night that interment will be made in the cemetery of St. Louis. Colonel Cockerill during his life had expressed a desire to be buried there, where the remains of several former friends and a number of prominent literary men. Before the body is taken to St. Louis funeral services will be held in New York. Colonel Cockerill was a cabinet-maker and was a member of several other fraternal bodies. These societies will at once begin preparations for participating in the funeral services here. The Press Club has already taken preliminary steps to appropriate action on his death yesterday of numerous messages of condolence from prominent men in this country and abroad.

HAS BEATTY ELOPED?

His Wife Declares He and Mrs. Lillie Price, of Jersey City, Have Gone Away Together.

Dr. Asher Beatty, manager of a dental office at Montgomery and Washington streets, Jersey City, and Mrs. Lillie Price, of No. 248 Washington street, that city, whose husband is a traveling salesman, have been missing for two weeks. It is believed the couple are in New Orleans. Dr. Beatty deserted a wife and a twelve-year-old child, living in Newark.

Mrs. Beatty said yesterday that she knew her husband had gone with Mrs. Price, and it was not the first time that he had been infatuated with other women. Last Summer, while at Ocean Grove with his family, Dr. Beatty introduced Mrs. Price to his wife. The couple's actions soon made Mrs. Beatty suspicious, and she finally resorted to the method of running the Universal Order of United Friends. Yesterday Dr. Beatty began a suit for $10,000 against the doctor for slander.

ENGLISH APPEAL FOR MRS. MAYBRICK.

Seymour Says She Should Be Rescued by the American Government.

The Utterance of the Lord Chief Justice of England Is in Her Favor.

Persons Who Instituted Proceedings Against the Prisoner May Be Brought to Justice.

OFFICIALS SHIRK AN INQUIRY.

Home Secretary Sir Matthew Ridley is Said to be Influenced by His Predecessor, the Husband of "Dodo."

By Julian Ralph.

London, April 11.—With regard to the resolution of Senator Call requesting the President of the United States to intervene with a view of releasing Mrs. Maybrick, I saw to-day the secretary of the Maybrick Committee, Mr. Henry Seymour.

I asked him if the committee thought, supposing the President were to intervene, if any substantial good would likely come of it.

He said good would come if the English people took the resolution in a proper spirit.

Mrs. Maybrick was an American citizen, and it was proper that the American Government should intervene in an attempt to rescue her from illegal imprisonment, such action being fully justified by the recent public utterance of the Lord Chief Justice of England, Russell, of Killowan, that she ought to be released.

He admitted that the feeling in England might be that America was interfering in English affairs in which she was not greatly concerned.

The committee had confined itself almost exclusively to an agitation for the demand of a public inquiry, resting assured that not only would the prisoner be vindicated, but that other persons against whom there were more than suspicions of conspiracy in initiating the prosecution and keeping Mrs. Maybrick imprisoned, would be brought to justice.

It might be possible, said Mr. Seymour, that he would hold a public inquiry in America.

The officials here, he added, shirked the inquiry because they were in the wrong.

Sir Matthew Ridley, the Home Secretary, had said he had no power to grant such a public inquiry, whereas it is a fact that in the present reign such public inquiry has been granted in the somewhat similar case of Jessie McClachlan.

He said he had it as a fact from one in very close touch with the Home Secretary Ridley, that he was influenced in a recent refusal to hold a public inquiry by Mr. Asquith, the Liberal ex-Home Secretary, who married "Dodo."

Mr. Seymour added: "We are prepared to prove up to the hilt that strychnine was the cause of the death of Mr. Maybrick, and not arsenic."

All the English friends of Mrs. Maybrick are grateful for what Americans are doing in her behalf.

DYERT STILL IN PRISON.

Weyler Cannot Set Him Free Until He Hears from the Court Having Jurisdiction.

By Julius Chambers.

Washington, April 11.—The State Department to-day received further information from Consul-General Williams in regard to Dygert. The Consul-General cabled that General Weyler had ordered the release of Ladislav Quintore, "that Dygert is well, and the Governor-General is taking great interest in the case, but, like every other executive authority, he has to await the action of the court having cognizance of the matter."

The interpretation of this dispatch by the experts of the department is that General Weyler is awaiting the indorsement of the civil officer having jurisdiction of the case of Dygert before ordering his final release.

It is asserted at the Department that Dygert will be set at liberty in a very short time.

THE FULL CONFESSION OF H. H. HOLMES.

leisure kill them. At 5 p. m. I borrowed a spade of a neighbor and at the same time called on Mrs. Pitezel at her hotel. I then returned to my hotel and ate my dinner, and at 7 p. m. went again to Mrs. Pitezel's hotel and aided her in leaving Toronto for Ogdensburg, N. Y. Later than 8 p. m. I again returned to the house where the children were imprisoned, and ended their lives by connecting the gas to the trunk.

Then came the opening of the trunk and the viewing of their little blackened and distorted faces. Then the digging of the two shallow graves in the basement of the house, the ruthless stripping off their clothing, and their burial without a particle of covering but the cold earth which I heaped upon them.

Consider what an awful act this was; these little innocent, helpless children, the oldest being only fifteen years of age, a puny and sickly child, who to look at one would believe much younger; consider that for eight years before their death I had been almost as much a father to them as though they had been my own children, thus giving them a right to look at me for care and protection, and in your righteous judgment let your bitterest curses fall on me; but again, I pray, upon me alone.

There is little more to tell. The next day was passed in burning the children's clothing, and in resting from my terrible night's work; and upon the 27th I called an expressman and had the trunk removed from the house, and after giving the keys to a neighbor went away never to return.

From Toronto I went to Ogdensburg, and from there to Burlington, Vt., where I hired a furnished room for Mrs. Pitezel's use, and a few days prior to my arrest in Boston wrote her a letter, in which I directed her to carry a bottle of dynamite that I had previously left in the basement, so arranged that in taking it to the third story of the house it would fall from her hands and not only destroy her life, but that of her two remaining children, whom I knew would be with her at the time. This was my last act, and happily did not have a fatal termination. The eighteen intervening months I have passed in solitary confinement, and in a few days am to be led forth to my death.

It would now seem a very fitting time for me to express regret or remorse in this which I intend to be my last public utterance for my irreparable shortcomings. I do so without the expectation that even one person who has read this confession to the end with believing that in my depraved nature there is room for such feelings, I fear to expect more than would be granted, and I can and do refrain from calling forth such a criticism by openly inviting it.

CONSUL WILLIAMS NOT KILLED.

No Truth in the Madrid Rumor of His Murder in Havana.

Havana, April 11.—The rumor circulated in Madrid last night that Ramon O. Williams, American Consul-General in Havana, had been murdered and his body dragged through the streets, is utterly false.

Washington, April 11.—The State Department this morning received an official dispatch from Consul-General Williams of Havana, and therefore concluded that the rumor that he had been killed yesterday was unfounded.

Mrs. Disbrow, daughter of Consul-General Williams, who lives at No. 35 Cambridge place, Brooklyn, said yesterday that if anything had happened to her father Vice-Consul Springer would have cabled to her. Not having heard from him, she had therefore decided that the report of his having been killed was untrue.

Interest in the games never flagged, and when Snedecor, from Company B, lowered the armory record for the half mile, the applause was deafening.

ONE TRUE SPRING REMEDY!

What the Best Authority in Medicines Says of Paine's Celery Compound.

The ablest pharmacists have always been among the most enthusiastic champions of Paine's celery compound.

But if there is one man in this country better qualified than any other to decide upon the practical merits of a Spring remedy, that man is Mr. J. J. Kearney, of the great wholesale drug house of Morrison, Plummer & Co., of Chicago.

He knows every prepared remedy, he deals in the finest drugs and chemicals, he is himself constantly employing the best chemists, he is the least likely of any man that could be named to be misled for a second in such matters, for there is no more thorough pharmacist than he in the country; he is simply able and does receive the advice of any physician he cares to consult.

And Mr. Kearney, with every remedy in the world at his disposal, failing sick in the Spring, chose Paine's celery compound! It made him well!

The other day in the mail that brought his usual number of unsolicited, grateful testimonials from all parts of the country to the proprietors of this greatest of remedies, there came the following:

Gentlemen—Two years ago last Spring, on account of having been for several months under a very severe strail, brought on by overwork, I was near complete nervous prostration and mental exhaustion. The character of my business is such that it requires a large amount of mental force, physical power and endurance. While in the condition referred to it happened to occur to me, knowing as I did of the large sales of Paine's celery compound, that it might be what I needed. I commenced taking it at once, and with most excellent results. Within a week I felt like my old self again, and after a month's time was in better condition physically than I had been for years, although I am naturally a strong, well man. Since that experience I have not hesitated to use Paine's celery compound liberally every Spring.

As a Spring medicine to be taken after illness which follow close confinement and over-exertion, I do not believe it has any equal. I have recommended it to many others, and so far as my experience goes it has always been taken with satisfactory results.

I am not usually enthusiastic over such matters, but with a remedy of such merit as you have it seems to me that it is my duty to give you this voluntary testimonial.

Yours respectfully, J. J. Kearney.
